This free, educational forum is provided by The Village of Lincolnshire and USDA Wildlife Services to provide residents with information about how to coexist with wildlife in suburban environments.

Illinois' wildlife and human populations are encountering each other more and more often. As humans develop more open space and wildlife habitat is reduced and fragmented, encounters between humans and wildlife become more common. For most people, observing wildlife is a thrilling experience, but when an animal causes damage or attempts to share your living space, that thrill can turn into frustration or fear.

Please attend this forum to be conducted by Illinois USDA Wildlife Services State Director Scott Beckerman, and Wildlife Biologist Travis Guerrant. This forum will address wildlife issues as they pertain to coyotes, Canada geese, and white-tailed deer.

Scott and Travis will present educational materials and provide their professional expertise in wildlife behavior, preventing and resolving human/wildlife conflicts, and wildlife management to answer your questions and provide information to allow you to coexist with wildlife.

For more information, please call Ms. Lydia Scott at (847) 883-8600.
